

10th – 15th November 2008

As part of the OneVoice International Education Programme, OneVoice Europe will be conducting a tour of UK Universities.

ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN CONFLICT: FORGET WHAT YOU'VE BEEN TOLD

Our campuses and communities are overflowing with literature and speakers about the Middle East conflict. But all too often, people and groups spend their time fighting for sole ownership of history and suffering or choose to stand up for their 'side' by attacking 'the other'.

Leading OneVoice youth activists from Israel and Palestine will be addressing these issues throughout the UK during November 2008, galvanizing support for their work in the Middle East and giving students the opportunity to be part of the solution, rather than part of the problem.

We've heard endless lectures from the politicians, professors, advocates and others. We know the frustrations and the critiques, but what do average Israelis and average Palestinians really think? Do they want to end the conflict? Are they able to compromise?

Israelis and Palestinians do not always agree, but those living in the Region are faced between a choice of working to find a way out of the conflict or leaving their children to inherit it. At OneVoice – at last – nationalist citizens on each side are rising to the challenge of finding a way out. Are you with them?
